ONION PLANTS (SWEET ONIONS)

Onion plants are generally used to grow the larger bulbs although they can be used for green onions. Most varieties grow quite large and are usually sweeter than what you grow from sets. The secret to growing huge onions, both from plants or sets is plant shallow and do not hill any soil around the growing bulb. Grow them practically on top of the ground. If you want to harvest green onions, plant deeper. Both sets and plants can be planted from late March-April in Ohio and northern states. Plant in early March further south. Store onion plants in a cool, dry place and loosen bundles. They can be stored in a refrigerator.

STRAWBERRY PLANTS

ALL PLANTS ARE CERTIFIED VIRUS-FREE

About our Strawberry Plants: We keep the plants in cold storage until the day they are shipped out to you. This keeps them dormant and is less stressful to the plants. When you receive the plants, it is best to get them in the ground as soon as possible, but as we know this is not always possible when the weather does not permit. If you are not able to plant in a day or so, store the plants in a cool dark place. A refrigerator or ice box is ideal. It is a good idea to take the rubber bands off the bundle and loosen the plants.

We highly recommend soaking the roots in water for an hour before you plant. It is good to plant early in the spring, but use caution. A long cold and wet spell can be stressful to strawberry plants. If you live in Ohio or about the same distance north, April 10th to May 10th is usually ideal. Points farther south of course can be planted a bit earlier and northern states like Wisconsin should wait till May or at the earliest late April.
